MESSAGE FROM SR. JOHN PAUL, O.P., PRINCIPAL OF ST. MICHAEL SCHOOL

Dear Knights,

On behalf of St. Michael School, I express our gratitude to you for your ongoing support of our parish and school community. This was recently made manifest in your generous completion of the picnic table project which provided the right setting to surround and secure the table in place for all to use safely. Special thanks to Michael LaMorte for coordinating this work with the help of Bryan Petras, Brian Elliot, Dante Vilardi, John Greve and Scott Finsel. I hope that the recent expansion of picnic tables and benches to the grounds, funded by the school and our Home and School Association, will contribute to the welcoming space for our St. Michael families.

We are also most grateful for your recent scholarship in support of St. Michael 2018 graduate, Hope Hinger. Please know how much we appreciate the many ways, seen and unseen, that you build up our community with prayer, charity, works of mercy, and industriousness. I pray that the children in our school will learn from your collective witness and participate in the Knights in the future.

May God reward you!

Sr. John Paul, O.P., Principal

WE ARE ALL PETER (Presented by our lecturer at our July Meeting)

Imagine for a moment that you are a young and ambitious entrepreneur living in Silicon Valley, one with a vision of becoming the next Apple, Google, Microsoft, or Amazon. And while we're daydreaming, let's also say you have a rich and successful father who will spend as much of his money as it takes for you to be successful like him. So you have this dream and you know you can't do it all alone. You know you need some help. So if you're starting a tech company, you hire a bunch of tech people, right? You get the best programmers and web designers your dad's money can buy. While you're at it, you get the best marketing and PR people you can find, and you get appearances and interviews on as many TV shows as possible. Image is everything so you make sure to make enemies of no one as you turn the social media gears. Of course, you also attend all the right events and work the room with all the right people to get an army of influential bloggers to write about you and your company. You do all this so that the venture capitalists invest in you so they can, in turn, cash in when your company goes public.

In Silicon Valley, that's the formula for a successful startup that has been repeated over and over again as people go from being a no-name founder with a dream to well-known multi-millionaire in the space of about three years. The formula is not a secret: You schmooze to grease the wheels a little bit, make everyone your friend, and hire only the best of the best. Simple, really. Successful startups don't hire surfers who live at home with their parents and work at a fast food place, then expect them to write world-changing algorithms. They don't hire a debt collector and have him be their vice president of marketing, or someone who is suspected of being an embezzler and make him CFO. And successful founders certainly don't go on social media and make enemies of the people who have seats of power that can stop their company before it gets started.

Yet this is exactly what Jesus did. He took fishermen, a few fanatical Jewish Nationalists, and a despised tax collector, and made them all His scribes. He took the least trustworthy of them and let him handle the money. He publicly and openly challenged the scribes, Pharisees, and Sadducees. He mingled with outcasts, sinners, lepers, prostitutes, and Romans. And then, after taking this gaggle of rather unremarkable people and teaching them for three years, He leaves the very thing He founded so that it can be run by the most unqualified men one could possibly imagine. If Jesus was anyone else who was forming a startup in Silicon Valley, it's pretty certain He would've wasted all of His dad's money.

Nevertheless this group of rather ordinary men — instead of walking away, instead of going back to their lives as they were — went on to do the most extraordinary thing: they built Jesus' Church, which has endured virtually unchanged for two thousand years. Without them, there would be no Gospels, no Epistles, no New Testament at all. Without this ragtag group there would be no Mass, no Eucharist, no Christian faith. Christ's death would have been for nothing, and His life, death, and resurrection would be remembered by no one.

We are no different from the Apostles. We are all rather normal people who have been called by Christ to follow Him. When you get right down to it, we're all just fishermen; we're all just Peter.

Sometimes we are chosen to witness a miracle; sometimes we fall asleep when we're most needed. Sometimes our boldness inspires others; sometimes our impulsiveness leads us to speak before we think. Sometimes the strength of our faith allows us to walk on water; sometimes our faith is shaken and we need pulled from the raging sea. Sometimes we run away and deny our faith out of fear; sometimes we are willingly persecuted for defending that which we believe.

Peter had his failings, there is no question. He had fear and doubt, he let his passions rule him, and in Jesus' darkest hour Peter abandoned Him and denied Him three times. But inasmuch as we all have an imperfect faith, just like Peter, we have all been chosen. And just like Peter, if we are sincere in our regret, we are forgiven of even the worst of our worst offenses. Indeed, we are all Peter. And upon us, His chosen rocks, He will continue to build His church.

Mike LaMorte, Lecturer

THE VALUE OF LIFE INSURANCE FOR CHILDREN

As a father, you worry about your children and do many things to protect them. We try to raise them right and make sure they are prepared to become adults. But have you ever thought about buying life insurance on your child?

When you insure a child, you are protecting his or her future. Did you know that one out of every six adults get rated, postponed, or denied for insurance coverage? If you purchase a policy for your child from the Knights of Columbus, it guarantees that more insurance can be purchased for that child without proving insurability.

Unfortunately, as fathers we don't have a crystal ball to tell us the future of our children. Your child could eventually have a rare disease, cancer, or be overweight. Did you know you can purchase a child's policy, in many cases, for less than $10 a month?

I've heard it said that people don't want to "profit" from the death of a child, so they won't purchase coverage on their children. God forbid something tragic happens, those funds can come in handy at a time when finances will be the last thing on a parent's mind. I have never heard a story about someone who regretting buying coverage on a child.

Contact me today to discuss the many policy options for child plans, including 10- and 20-Pay life insurance.

ROOFING THE BOOTHS , TUESDAY, AUGUST 28, 5:30 PM

To carry on the tradition Brother Knight Chris Damo started many years ago, please add Tuesday Night, August 28th (beginning at 5:30 p.m.) to your calendar for "Roofing the Booths", a project for our annual St. Michael Parish Festival. We will be putting tarps on the game booths and help complete any remaining booths that need set up. Please consider helping out.

Brother Knight Tony Schera and his work crew will be getting booths assembled that morning and afternoon, so we anticipate that all booths will be ready for roofing that evening. Usually, teams of 4-people will nail a tarp on each booth by pounding the nails halfway into the 2x4 wood beams and then bending the nails. (By bending the nails, they are easier to remove on Monday Tear Down after the festival.)

The more people we have, the quicker we can finish (rewarded by pizza, pop, and beer after the job is done). If you have an 8-foot ladder (or longer) and a hammer, please bring them. When you arrive, Brother Knight Jeff Stewart will place you on a team. For questions, contact Alex Jamieson below. Thank you.
